

Peer Workforce Development

VICSERV provides a range of professional development and training activities to support the peer workforce across community mental health.

This includes:

Certificate IV in Mental Health Peer Work (CHC43515)

This specialist, nationally recognised course is offered by Wodonga Institute of TAFE, in partnership with VICSERV. It has been specifically designed for workers who have lived experience as either a consumer or carer, and who work in mental health services roles that support, mentor and advocate for consumers or carers.

Workforce development and support

Consultation and organisational development strategies to assist organisations to successfully recruit, employ and support a peer workforce.

Short courses and professional development

All VICSERV short courses and professional development activities are suitable for peer workers, and all content and delivery modalities are overseen by our senior peer trainer.

Customised Training & Professional Development

VICSERV can customise all of our training and professional development products, to meet your specific organisational and regional needs. Customising can include:

- Delivery on-site in your organisation or regional area
- Aligning training content with your organisational policies and procedures
- Using a variety of training modalities, including small-group face-to-face training, teleconferencing and webinars
- Provide post-training support and consultancy services to maximise change and learning throughout your organisation
- Designing evaluation strategies to meet your organisational professional development strategy
- Advertise your regional training for you, and manage registrations
- Assist you to advertise your regional training in your own networks, and promote to your stakeholders as part of your training and development plan
